

● CLOTHES

Shirts, pants, kimono, leather jackets, underwear, ... You do not need to remove the buttons and zippers.

★Moving forward to garbage reduction ★

Let's take advantage of flea markets and thrift shops

● WOODEN

Disposable chopsticks, wooden soup bowls, lacquer ware, skewers, toothpicks, wooden clogs, cutting boards, wooden toys, pruned branches, wooden boxes... Wood splinters/shavings that are generated from DIY activities, etc.

(Cut to a size of about 30 cm and place them inside a designated garbage bag.)

※ Disposable chopstick wrappers are either Paper or Plastic garbage.

※ If these items are made of plastic (bowl and cutting board), put them with the unburnable garbage.

※ If these items are made of plastic (bowl and cutting board), put them with the unburnable garbage.

◎When you put out pruned branches....◎

In order to avoid the garbage trucks being damaged, their length should not be more than 60cm and the diameter of the bundle should not be more than 30cm.
 ※The diameter of each branch should not be more than 5cm.

If you have a big quantity, please bring them to the drop off depot.

● PAPER SCRAPS

Tissues, stickers (and sticker sheets), carbon paper, kitchen towels, shredded paper, disposable diapers (cleaned beforehand), oil stained paper, etc...

● Beverage cartons

Cartons for milk/juice, shochu (distilled spirits), and wine, etc.

The following 3 types of garbage (namely, wrapping materials, tubes, and small bags) can be handled and disposed of as "burnable waste."

With that said, however, if they are clean on the inside, you can continue throwing them out together with other "plastic containers and packaging" as you have in the past.

Rough guide for the maximum size of a "small bag"
 Everything up to a maximum size of roughly a pouch of re-heatable curry

● OTHERS

Poultices, cigarette butts, water absorbents, tea bags (squeeze the water out), tatami mats, the spongy part of radish sprouts, pencils, crayons, curtains, sheets, towels, dust cloth, beef tallow & lard, Cooking oil waste that has been solidified, sanitary items (wrapped in a sheet of newspaper), disposable masks, blankets, cushions (if it is made from sponge materials inside, put out as unburnable garbage), water absorbent sheets that are placed underneath meats and fish (material does not matter).
